

Thys Pretorius

Working as an organisation and leadership transformation facilitator Thys' passion and focus has always been in addressing and solving challenges at all levels in a sustainable and holistic manner. His ±30 years of experience in organisation performance, change and transformation, learning and leadership span across diverse industries amongst others; civil engineering, mining, retail, executive education, hospitality, non-profit organisations and consulting.

He spent the first 15-odd years of his career gaining corporate experience working at senior management levels across various functions, before commencing a career in consulting and facilitating organisation effectiveness with Phendulwa Ulwazi, University of Stellenbosch Business School Executive Development and Consilium Consulting.

His success has been because of his ability to think and work at systemic and strategic levels, translating potentially complex issues into practical differentiated solutions. Having grounding in the Behavioural Sciences and Futures Thinking has stood him in good stead.

His passion for people and sustainability, at all levels, is at the heart of what he does; understanding the deeper underlying causes of the problem rather than addressing the symptoms as it manifests. Ultimately helping people and organisations work towards the realisation of their purpose.

Apart from applying his trade in Sub-Sahara Africa he has also done work in the Middle-East and in Europe, earning a reputation as an experienced and sought-after Facilitator of sustainable Futures.

I believe in sustainable futures.
